So many kids need hours

I love having teens volunteer at the library. It gets them in the doors and allows me to get to know them and them know me. We offer a variety of activities.

Teens can volunteer by cleaning books and shelves or they can participate through our TAG/TAB group. TAG was instrumental in helping decide what our teen HQ was going to look like. They picked out the furniture and the colors. They decided what they wanted based on responses from a survey completed by area teens. Any way to get your teens involved in their space helps - painting book ends, or assisting in book selection. Give them a project they can feel ownership over and they will show up.
