

What are Online Library Resources?

They are citations, abstracts, and full-text articles for thousands of magazines, newspapers, and reference resources. They include photos, video clips, and maps which are accessible 24 hours a day, 7 days a week via the Internet. North Dakota librarians, individuals, and students can download entire articles from any computer with Internet access.

Who can access the online resources?

Library card holders from any participating library and students of any participating school can access these materials.

How do I access the online resources?

If you have a computer with Internet access, you can access the online resources through your participating library's home page or by going to the North Dakota State Library's home page at www.library.nd.gov and clicking on Online Library Resources.

Can I print a copy of an online article?

Yes. The online resources provide printer-friendly versions of online articles.

Is there a fee for using the online resources?

No. The online resources are free to all North Dakota citizens, thanks to funding from participating North Dakota libraries and the state legislature.
