How do I get books?

The North Dakota State Library, in partnership with the National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled, provides books in audio and Braille formats. Audio books can be accessed using a DTBM (Digital Talking Book Machine) and through BARD (Braille and Audio Reading Download). Braille materials are available in hardcopy and eBraille. Braille services for North Dakota residents are provided through a partnership with the Utah State Library. Additionally, the North Dakota State Library has over eight thousand books in large print available for Talking Books Patrons.

DTBM (Digital Talking Book Machine) DTBMs are standalone players that utilize a USB cartridge that can contain up to eight complete audio books. The machines have large buttons and Braille tags for easy usage and can run on AC or battery power.

BARD (Braille and Audio Reading Download) is a web-based, password-protected service that provides access to thousands of audio and braille books, magazines, and music scores available from NLS. The service is available as an application on a Windows or Mac computer or on an iOS or Android device. The mobile application, known as BARD Mobile, includes built-in playback capability so you can enjoy talking books anytime, anywhere.
