Public Library Association Webinar: Super Searchers for Library Workers

September 19, 2023 1:00 PM – 2:00 PM

The ease with which misinformation can be created and spread online endangers everyday discourse—and libraries are uniquely suited to help counteract its negative effects. Using research developed at University of Washington, Google has created a new set of tools for evaluating material found online, making it easier to think critically about the veracity of digital information right at the point of search. In this interactive presentation, library consultant Toby Greenwalt will demonstrate the capabilities of Super Searchers and showcase potential applications in the library workspace.

Raising Reading Achievement with Strong Phonemic Awareness With Lucy Hart Paulson

September 26, 2023 9:30 AM – 11:00 AM

Phonemic awareness is a vital foundation in learning to read and write. In fact, nearly 90% of struggling readers have some weakness in their phonological processing system. With advances in neuroimaging, science has established deeper understandings of these important phonological and phonemic foundations. This session describes 1) the connection of phonological awareness within a larger context of phonological processing; 2) assessment strategies based on phonological and phonemic awareness developmental skill expectations; and 3) instruction and intervention strategies to help students develop these vital skills.

Join Just Right Reader and Lucy Paulson, Co-Author of LETRS, to engage in learning around the Science of Reading.

WebJunction Webinar: Climate Action Planning (Part 2): Disaster Preparedness and Community Resilience

September 26, 2023 1:00 PM – 2:30 PM (90 Minutes)

This panel discussion will feature practitioners with deep experience in preparing both their libraries, and their communities, for the impacts of climate change. Our panel will speak to traditional disaster preparedness, business continuity planning, community resilience work, and preparing communities for severe weather events and the increased likelihood of food supply interruptions. While libraries are not first responders, they should be connected with the emergency management community and be positioned as part of both the short-term and long-term “first restorer” network as disruptions amplified by climate change happen with more frequency.

Niche Academy Webinar: Revitalizing Your Library Faculty Governance

September 27, 2023 1:00 PM – 2:00 PM CST

Shared governance is an important right for library faculty, but getting faculty to actually participate is crucial to its success. While library faculty governance can, at times, be tedious, it doesn't have to be boring. By making a few simple changes, you can encourage your faculty to follow important issues, speak up about their concerns, and pitch in when work is needed. In this webinar, Ashley Hoffman will draw on research on faculty governance best practices as well as her own past experience as a Library Faculty Assembly chair in order to share her top tips and takeaways for revitalizing your organization's faculty governance.

If you're interested but not able to attend the live webinar, go ahead and register. We'll send a recording to all registrants after the fact.
